

Mayo transport firm win depot of the year award

MAYO'S East West Express has been awarded Customer Service Depot of the Year in the first TPN (The Pallet Network) Awards, held recently.

TPN is Ireland's leading distributor of palletised goods and provider of pallet transport and sortation systems.

TPN members from around the country voted in the awards, judging their peers on their performance in categories such as customer service and contribution to the national network.

Mr. James Marren, owner and principal of the depot, said he was delighted with the win.

He added: "I am honoured that my peers see East West Express as such an efficient and effective member of the national network. Huge thanks are due to all our loyal staff in Charlestown. They are the key to the company's success."

TPN's managing director, Seamus McGowan said: "East West Express has been a huge asset to The Pallet Network and we were delighted to see them recognised for their achievements.

"They have succeeded in both providing their customers with an excellent service and in contributing to the overall growth of the national network."

Since becoming established in Mayo over 21 years ago, East West Express has built a sound reputation in the haulage business in the west of Ireland.

They believe in providing their customers with a high quality, reliable, fast and flexible service, which is individually tailored to meet the needs of all their customers.

This is the second award East West has been honoured with in recent times.

In December 2007, the then Minister for Enterprise, Trade and Employment Micheál Martin, and Maurice Buckley, CEO, National Standard Authority of Ireland, awarded the company with an ISO: 9001 certificate of accreditation at the launch of TPN's €10 million, 24/7 hour hub in Blanchardstown, Dublin.

Publication: Connaught Telegraph

Date: Tuesday, July 22, 2008

Page: 20a

Extract: 2 of 2

Circulation: 13.506

Author:

Headline: Mayo transport firm win depot of the year award

Pictured at the recent Pallet Network Awards are Adam Leonard, chief executive of The Pallet Network (TPN) UK and Seamus McGowan, managing director of TPN Ireland. They are presenting James Marren with an award recognising East West Express as TPN's 'Customer Service Depot of the Year.' The Mayo-based company was nominated for the award by 21 network members throughout the country for having played an exceptional role in the success and growth of TPN.