

Eoin's wheely good network

Tom McCullough

MANAGING Director of The Pallet Network (TPN), Seamus McGowan, today welcomed Eoin Gavin Transport as the Clare member of Ireland's most innovative transport network. As the newest member of TPN, Eoin Gavin Transport will provide Clare area businesses with access to a high quality, reliable, fast and flexible service with same and next day nationwide, UK and European delivery services. The Pallet Network (TPN) is a wholly owned Irish company and the leading distributor of palletised goods in Ireland. TPN recently announced revenues of €9.2 million for 2008, up from €7.8 million for the previous year.

Mr. McGowan said, "Our vision is to offer local hauliers like Eoin Gavin Transport an opportunity to have a service to rival multinational transport operators. Despite the current economic situation, TPN's business model is relatively recession proof. Eoin Gavin's addition to our network will develop and improve freight forwarding options for businesses throughout Clare."

Eoin Gavin Transport is a family owned business and they have been involved in the haulage industry for over 30 years. Now in 2009, they have a modern fleet of trucks servicing sectors such as agriculture, environment, waste, food and the construction sector. "I am very pleased to be the latest member of The Pallet Network," said Mr Gavin. "I am confident that the services I provide to local area businesses in Clare will continue to improve in quality. As a member of the Pallet Network, my customers can now be provided with this additional service, thanks to the infrastructure provided through TPN."

Above: Eoin Gavin, with Seamus McGowan, MD, TPN.